

Newsletter 23 November 2021 | View on the web

Features and news

Quality benchmarking
An invaluable technique that should be used more often.

The history of terracotta
The 19th and 20th centuries left a legacy of defects.

How net zero can be delivered
CIOB brings together government and suppliers in the Midlands.

Kissing gates
More functional than flirtatious.

Building regulations
What they are, how they work and where they came from.

Work Opportunity JOE BRENNAN TRAINING London
Apprentice Electrician

Around the web

Digital Construction Week
We need to change our approach to construction knowledge.

Construction Manager, Nov 22
Product testing chaos may exacerbate material shortages.

TCI, Nov 22
Calls to ban new homes in flood risk zones.

SCN, Nov 19
Deal for £100m wellbeing destination in Glasgow.

Parliament, Nov 4
Reducing whole life carbon.

8.5 million people use Designing Buildings to find construction industry knowledge every year. Write an article and they will also find out about you.

Subscribe to this newsletter

