

Draft London Housing Strategy

Rebekah Paczek from Snapdragon Consulting takes a look at Boris Johnson's draft housing strategy for London, published for consultation on 25 November.

The plan is touchingly ambitious with an aim of delivering 42,000 homes per year for the next 20 years. Apparently we are no longer going to live in "serried ranks of stultifying rabbit hutches."

RSH+P's 8 Chifley

In 2013, 8 Chifley became the Sydney Central Business District's newest and most progressive commercial tower. Dramatically different to anything seen before on the Sydney skyline, this 34-storey office building is the product of a collaboration between the internationally renowned architectural practice Rogers Stirk Harbour + Partners and Australia's award-winning Lippmann Partnership. Hamsard 3147 Limited & others v Boots UK Limited

A new case report from Najma Dunnett gives clarity about the amount of notice considered "reasonable" to end a contract. Breaking up is never easy, but it is made more complicated when no clear provisions exist for termination or the length of notice to terminate.....or for that matter a written contract. Time to start writing?

Designing Buildings Wiki only works because people like you write articles. It's good for the industry, and it's good for you. Put your signature at the end of your article, and it will automatically link to your profile, so when people read about your subject, they will also find out about you. Read more...

All about paper sizes

Two great new articles; paper sizes and North American paper sizes give a fascinating insight into a subject that is much more complex than you might think.

Who knew the US went metric in 1975? For a while anyway. Or that pen sizes differ by a factor of 2 so that, for example, after drawing with a 0.35 mm pen on A3 paper and reducing it to A4, you can continue with a 0.25 mm pen.

Ideas competition

There's still time to enter our ideas competition: How do we keep investors interested in UK property?

We don't want long answers, so it only takes 2 mins to enter. The winner will get £500 and will be invited to Development Securities offices to see how they keep their investors interested in property. Find out how to enter.
